Ready To Tell The Word

"Big things are happening" according to Ralph Perkins, chairman of the gospel team committee of swordbearers. This year the swordbearers have launched a youth involvement program. Gospel teams have been set up to meet the needs of this ministry. In the fall of 1970, swordbearers also held a fall youth conference for high school students from many Ohio churches. These teams will be touring west-ern Pennsylvania and the state of New York between March 18 and March 28.

Through the preaching of the Word, swordbearers wish to emphasize the theme "a time for us." They will be involved in three Sunday services on their tour, as well as a radio broadcast, and a church banquet. Their youth involvement emphasis will be stressed at youth rallies and youth workshops on contemporary problems.

They will also be involved in canvassing and a house to house visitation program. The latter program will be carried out on a person to person visit, with teaching and fellowship. Each Wednesday evening these teams meet to pray and have training sessions before their tour.

Approximately 19 students, and faculty advisor Dick Walker, will be making this tour.

Those students correlating this tour are Ralph Perkins, chairman; Paul Radcliff, Joan Miller, Ellen Young, Kathy Strawn, Jim Griffith, and Don Davis.

Swordbearers are also working on weekends to tell the news of Jesus Christ. Their future plans include a ministry on March 7 in Celina, Ohio. They also plan to travel to Medina, Columbus, and Caldwell, Ohio in the future.

Won't you TAKE FIVE minutes today and pray for this ministry?

Hitting The Beaches

From March 26 through April 3 twenty-nine Cedarville students will converge on the beaches of Fort Lauderdale, Florida. Their mission is to spread the Word. Accommodations have been arranged by Grace Baptist Church of Ft. Lauderdale. Brunch will be served by the members of the house in which they stay. After brunch they will have daily devotions and hit the beach at 11:30 a.m. and stay until dark. In the evening they conduct youth clinics and visitation. On March 28 they will conduct a service at Grace Baptist Church.

Hold Easter Service

An Easter candlelight service, with a background of palms, will be presented March 10 at 7:00 p.m., at the usual prayer meeting hour in Alfred Auditorium by the Advanced Oral Interpretation Class.

Included in the program will be organ and piano duets with Jim Bucholtz at the organ and Steve Millikan at the piano. A chorale reading will be given by the members of the class, under the direction of Mrs. Miriam Maddox.

Randy Patten, Lyle Rodman, Susan Leonard will present Easter readings. The Reflections Trio and the Freshman Quartet will present a special number. Carol Webber will play a flute solo.

Mr. Dave Matson will lead the Congregation in singing. The invocation will be given by Pastor Harold Green.

These elements have been blended to make what the class feels will be a rich worship experience.

Mrs. Maddox and the class cordially invite all to attend and worship the Risen Savior.

Choir To Tour

by Sue Selden

Practicing . . . planning . . . packing . . . all in preparation for the Cedarville College Choir tour beginning March 17th and continuing through the 28th.

The tour begins at a Southern Baptist college in Campbellsville, Kentucky, and the choir travels northeast through Ithaca, New York; Buffalo, New York; Cherry Hill, New Jersey; and Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. The last concert, before returning to the College, will be performed in the Landmark Baptist Temple, Cincinnati, Ohio.

The program includes works of Randall Thompson: "Creation" and "Allelujah"; a contemporary setting of the Beatitudes, and hymn arrangements by John Peterson, Dick Anthony, and Don Husted, Tim Hegg on the trumpet, the Reflections and Conquerettes trios and vocal soloists will highlight each performance. Accompanists for the choir are Connie Clark and Becki Chandes, and Buddy McNiece is the student director.

The College Choir, 46 in number and directed by Mr. David Matson, has planned a number of pre-tours, beginning Sunday, March 7, in Sidney, Reynoldsburg, Greenville, and Washington Heights.

During Spring Quarter, the choir has scheduled 15 additional concerts including one on campus, Friday, April 9, 1971.

... To Arms!! ...

REVOLT! REVOLUTION! PEACE! FREEDOM!, are the cries from our fellow college peers. Some of their cries are agreeable to us who are separate from the world. We, as soldiers of the greatest army of the Universe, must deal with this generation of which we are a part. Man throughout history has haseled with the social, economical and military problems that we face today. But natural man has never been able to answer these problems. The majority of our student body here, realizes the vast problems of our country and the "unanswerable" question of the universal student family. Many times the statements of college students in America are batted around the halls of our dorms, yes, even here at Cedarville. Most of the time no answer is resolved due to the lack of knowledge. But this is no different than the committees which have dealt with the same problems and questions for years. Today our generation is seeking to find the answers. They are sick and tired of the way the former generation has blown this country. Many of the students in our generation have seen their parents and other adults embezzle, lie, cheat, and live a complete life of hypocrisy. Now the cry is: Give us a chance and maybe we won't wreck it!

How do we win a generation like ours to the Lord? We would venture to say that the vast majority of our student body doesn't know! Some of the world say we should give in to the demands of these individuals. Others say we should respond to these demands with brutal force. We have this same faction on our campus. For when students here complain or question or sometimes demand, even where their "murmurings" are warranted and JUST, the Prophets of Doom stand up and scream, "Kick him out with brute force," or the Angels of Mercy sing, "Give in to him". We think it is time we learned something from the world. It has been proven that the hearts of men cannot be moved by changing the environment. The action of changing must be from the inside out. You cannot change the spirituality of the individual by only dealing with legality of the Law. If we want to win a fellow college rebel to the Lord we are not going to deal with the Vietnam War, because that will not win him. We shall not deal with the social economical problems of this nation, for that shall not win him. We shall not deal with the brutality of the policeman in our country, for that shall not win him. We shall not even deal with the church system, for not even that will win him. We shall only deal with the one person's relationship with Jesus Christ, for that is the only way we shall win him! In the same way, if we are to deal with an individual here on campus, we will deal with his relationship to Christ. If we look at our Student Body, what is our relationship to Christ? As each of us know and will admit, it is becoming more and more lax. It has become a thing of the dorm to not attend chapel and never go to church. Some of us think we're looked up to and some yell, "right on", because we've been able to stay out of Sunday School and Church all quarter. Some have even thought up pretty "good" excuses why they don't go, like: "I don't have any classes 'till noon," or "I stayed up too late on Saturday night." Many times students say there are not enough good classes to attend. These excuses have continued to other realms of college life like rules, food, dorm cleaning, Student Activities, dates and many other areas. These are the cries of revolt and revolution among our Student Body. However, we shall not answer these questions that are sometimes right, by authoritative demands. There are many who still remember the days of the dorm checks for Church and Prayer Meetings. None of us want them again and none of us thought they were right. However, we all know that our responsibility to the Christ who died for us is to be in His house. Not in the HYPOCRITICAL way of the previous generation, but to break out of that mold and how the world that Christ means more to us than a Sunday 11:00-12:00 job. Don't complain to us about poor chapel speakers if your devotional life is not in tune with Christ day by day, because you wouldn't hear a spirit-filled chapel message anyway. Don't talk about the lack of good Sunday School classes if you lie on your Christian Service Report, because your tongue has already proved your trustworthiness.

We think it is time our Student Body woke up to the needful problems of our life. Instead of dealing with the legalistic law, band together and deal with the spiritual problems that are wrecking us from within. As a Student Body, let's not stand for individuals sleeping in on Sunday mornings or lying on Christian Service Reports. the call is, "TO ARMS!!", against the complacent Christian attitude which is beginning to effect us all. When our own life with Christ is then brought to the level it should be, we shall be able to answer these problems and conquer this whole town for Christ. And then the generation of our country will know of Christ and Him crucified.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Mr. Miller:

We are writing this letter in response to the article that appeared in your last edition of the "Whispering Cedars," "And The Students Murmured." We personally believe that this article was written in a manner that completely insulted the intelligence of any student on this campus.

This article tried to compare the Food Service to Scripture and it cannot be connected in any manner whatsoever. The one statement that seemed to bother me the most was the statement, "When you open your mouth to say anything derogatory about the condition of the food God has given you, it is in direct disobedience to the Word of God." The first question that enters my mind is what is the basis that is used to make this statement?

Another statement that was made in this article was "...disobedient to parents, UNTHANKFUL, and unholy." This statement stirred the wrath throughout my person. Unthankful? Is that what is said about a person when he does not like the food that is served? Many of the kids that attend school here have to work all summer, sometimes many hours a week to just make the expenses that come around during the school year. And don't we have the right to express our opinions when it is our good money that is paying for the Food Service?

The opinion that is expressed in this article seems to make the student body appear to be sinners because they have a complaint against the service. What is being said is that in essence we should except the service because it is run by Christians. That is the same as saying that because we buy a car from a Christian we should not take it back when the transmission falls out one day later, BECAUSE THE DEALER IS A CHRISTIAN. That is utterly ridiculous.

The Food Service is something we pay for. Then why shouldn't we be allowed to express the feelings that we have when we receive a portion that is unfit for human consumption? This is a right that is expressly given to us, when we paid the board fee that appeared in our bill at the beginning of the quarter.

Sincerely yours,
Don Fleming, Jon Smith

A Proposal For Action

by Jeff Lough

Spring is almost here! You know — spring quarter; students going berserk, mud fights, water fights, pranks, and just having fun. But there is one other thing — revolution. Spring quarter the student radical come out from the rooms in the student unions where they have been planning all winter long. They come out with a determination to "shut this place down." There is no compromise and the demands that will be made will all be non-negotiable. If you have not experienced the uncompromising logic of a campus revolt or the reality of blood in the streets then you cannot comprehend the frustration of trying to deal with the revolutionaries. The demands are means to an end. They are designed so they cannot be met. The good that the spring revolts will strive for is destruction of the whole system.

Before me I have an invitation to attend the Student Mobilization Committee's National Student Antiwar Conference on February 19-21. I did not go but they held the conference any way and planned their spring offensive. I thought you might be interested in some of the activities that are on tap for the next few months.

April 2, 3, 4. Local meetings, rallies and memoratoria commemorating Martin Luther King as a peace activist and a fighter for human rights, which can bring antiwar groups and Black community organizations together for common action.

April 24. "Peaceful" legal mass march and rally in Washington D.C. and San Francisco, calling for the total and immediate withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Southeast Asia.

May 5. Local rallies and demonstration on the first "anniversary" of the killing of students at Kent State and Jackson State.

May 16. Demonstrations, "picnics," etc., at military bases on Armed Forces Day...focus for solidarity between the civilian and GI antiwar movements.

Sounds like quite a schedule...doesn't it? Says a fact sheet that accompanied the invitation, "Our spring offensive will be larger and broader than ever before." I think that we may assume from this that they mean business and that the possibility of another Kent State is far from remote. Actually, it depends on the governors. You can bet that the demonstrations will be the same or worse than last year, but governors probably will be hesitant about sending national guard troops in with loaded guns. But it looks as though this could be another explosive spring.

Wouldn't it be great if a group of Christians went to the Washington mass march and presented to the revolutionaries a viable solution to political social problems in the United States by showing them their need and the world's need of Jesus Christ as Savior. Think about it. I throw this out as a proposal for action; a witness to people who hate you.

Let Us Sing

Let us now worship God with the singing of hymn number 665. However, so that we may glorify God and worship Him more reverently, we will sing only the first, second, fourth, fifth and twenty-seventh verses with everybody singing on the first except for the chorus in which the boys will hum and the girls will sing. Let's have the boys sing the second verse alone and you girls join in on the chorus. On the fourth, we'll all stand while the girls hum and the boys sing; let's do that verse without instruments please. For the fifth, with the instruments please, let's have the girls sing alone and everybody hum on the chorus. You may be seated on the last where we will have everybody singing except for the chorus where we will all hum, without the instruments please. LET US SING!!!

Thoughts For Today

by Susan Leonard

Sunday night supper is the scene. Everyone is sitting around enjoying themselves. Behind us sits a table of fellow Christians. Their laughter rings in our ears, "Jesus Christ!" ... now wait a minute and let me think—where am I? Cedarville College is the home of the Bible-believing people, right? We are all Christians, called such because we follow Christ. Or do we?

"I lived for myself, I thought for myself,
For myself, and none beside—
Just as if Jesus had never lived,
As if He had never died."

The scene is in the library. Tuesday night the staff cleans the pen and pencil marks off the desks. Wednesday night, those same clean desks are no longer clean, but arrayed with initials and drawings. Or perhaps the book you needed from the library is gone. Someone borrowed it without checking it out. Or perhaps a page is ripped out of the magazine you are looking at.

"I lived for myself, I thought for myself,
For myself, and none beside—
Just as if Jesus had never lived,
As if He had never died."

The scene is the confusion you feel inside when you have discovered that something of yours is missing, whether it be a book, umbrella, jacket, or ink pen.

"I lived for myself, I thought for myself,
For myself, and none beside—
Just as if Jesus had never lived,
As if He had never died."

The Moment Of Truth

by Barry McCoy

For a college student or young married couple, the end of the month is usually a nerve racking time. This is the moment of truth. Will there be enough money for the bills, or is this another time to write to a creditor, asking for a little longer on that payment?

A lot of people rely on their budget to ease the pain. They try to forecast how much money will be needed for each item in the month. But a lot of people can't make it even though they seem to make a good deal of money. They don't seem to know how much to spend and what areas to spend it in.

The Department of Labor has been studying the American family and its standard of living. Here is a chart showing how much they think a family of four needs to live on. The three categories take into consideration different income brackets.

"Wine of Morning" by Dr. Bob Jones, presented March 6 at 8:00 Alford Auditorium

A Unique Film Presentation

"Wine of Morning", produced by Unusual Films of Bob Jones University, Greenville, South Carolina, will be shown this coming Saturday, March 6, at 8:00 p.m. in Cedarville College's Alford Auditorium. This motion picture, the most-honored evangelical one ever produced, is certainly worth the 35 cent charge. It is the first Christian film ever to win the four major awards given by the National Evangelical Film Foundation: it was selected as the best of the year; Katherine Stenholm was named best director; Al Carter, playing the role of Barabbas, was named outstanding Christian actor of the year; and Bob Jones University was named as producer of the year.

University Film Producers Association chose "Wine of Morning" in 1958 to represent American colleges and universities in Cannes, France for a meeting of the International Congress of Motion Pictures and Television School Directors at the International Film Festival. "Wine of Morning" was chosen because it demonstrates the high quality of cinema training available in the United States, and because its evangelical message would provide a revealing contrast against the entries from Russia and other Communist countries.

The inspiration of the title is found in Acts 2, in which Peter says, "For these are not drunken, as ye suppose, seeing that it is but the third hour of the day." "Wine of Morning," based on Dr. Bob Jones novel of the same name, refers to the joy Christ gives, whose Spirit gives light to men.

"Wine of Morning" is a feature-length, color dramatization of the life of Barabbas — the man whom Pilate released to the mob and on whose cross Jesus Christ was crucified. Although the Bible says nothing about Barabbas other than he was a murderer and robber, Dr. Bob Jones portrays what might have been Barabbas' background and eventual ending. Interwoven into the film are some of the miracles of Jesus Christ, including the turning of water into wine at the wedding in Cana of Galilee. Through the film the viewer becomes familiar with the New Testament characters.

The production of the film was filmed on the 200-acre campus of Bob Jones University, with the exception of the countryside scenes. After two years of research into the costumes, manners, and customs of the first-century Palestinians, students of staff members of Unusual Films constructed more than fifty authentic settings and made hundreds of elaborate costumes. The filming of the storm at sea was accomplished by a fifty-foot tank, using a miniature Roman ship designed and constructed to scale. The music was composed by a faculty member and played by the Bob Jones University Symphony. The 120 speaking roles and the 700 extra roles were played by the "University family."

"Wine of Morning" has everything that makes up an exciting screen play — shipwreck, bloodshed, romance, adventure, and human interest. This film is a film with a message and purpose. Everyone participating in the production of "Wine of Morning" is a professing Christian who considers the work of Unusual Films a ministry for God. The studio's trademark — a flying angel holding a camera — brings this philosophy to light. Dr. Jones explains the choice of the unusual emblem this way: "The word 'angel' means messenger, and our films are films with a message." "Wine of Morning" has a message for everyone who views it. Why not come to Alford Auditorium Saturday at 8:00 p.m. and receive this message for yourself?

Circle Freeway League Tourney Here This Week

After finishing league play in a three way tie with University of Dayton and Mount Saint Joseph the Cedarville College girls' basketball team hopes to win an undisputed title this weekend in the Circle Freeway League tournament to be held at Cedarville this weekend.

The tournament will be held between the games of the junior church tournament. Wilmington and University of Cincinnati will open the action Friday night as they play a 7:30 P.M. The next game will be Saturday morning at 10:30 as Cedarville will face Mount Saint Joseph, then University of Dayton faces the winner of the Friday evening game at 12:00. The winners of these two games play for the championship Saturday at 3:00 P.M.

Two weeks ago the Jackettes won a big league win as they rolled over Mount Saint Joseph 41-20. Jean Taylor hit 17 points and Rita Gast had 8. This put the Jackettes' record at 3-2 and 3-0 in the conference.

Next the Jackettes beat Wilmington 40-35, but the Quakerettes showed much improvement as earlier the Jackettes had beaten them 43-22. Darlene Mann had a game high 11 points and Jan Martin hit 10.

In a big game at University of Dayton the Jackettes lost 45-30. Had the Jackettes been able to win this game they would have been undisputed Circle Freeway Champs, but this loss coupled with an earlier U. D. loss to Mount St. Joseph put the three teams in a tie with identical 3-1 records.

Last Saturday the Jackettes played what was probably their best game of the year as they knocked off a good team from Ashland 53-41. In a good first half the Jackettes, led by Jean Taylor's 15 points opened up a 35-24 lead and held on to win 53-41. Jean finished with 19 and Rita Gast added 18 big points as the Jackettes moved their record to 5-3.

'Jackets Drop Finale To Grace College 98-93

Cedarville played its final basketball game at Grace on Saturday, losing a squeaker 98-93, after trailing only by two points—95-93 with 56 seconds on the clock. Grace seemed to be just strong enough to stay out in front as the 'Jackets came back from ten and 14 point deficits three times during the second half, but didn't have enough to push ahead of the Lancers.

Gary Holbrook, playing his last game for Cedarville, tossed in 28 points, and was the chief factor as the Cedarville five charged back from a 10 point deficit at 91-81 with 4:12 to go. Gary was tenacious on the boards, collecting many buckets from under the offensive basket.

Don Atherton, also seeing his final action for Cedarville, scored 20 points mainly from outside as the Jackets were forced to run and shoot to keep up with the red hot Lancers, who seemed to spurt every time Cedarville got close. Also in double figures were freshmen Barret Luketic with 12 points and Terry Clapp with 17.

In the first half Cedarville held an early lead of 18-14 with 11:00 on the clock. After an 18-18 tie the 'Jackets never saw the lead again. After falling behind by five at 27-22, some good board work brought Cedarville back to within two at 35-33 with 4:56 left. A last second shot gave Grace a ten point lead at the half of 50-40. In the second half Cedarville almost dug themselves a hole as Grace zoomed out to a 58-44 lead, with deadly accuracy from 15-20 feet. However, the 'Jackets kept picking at the lead, and with 11 minutes left in the game were again down only by three at 66-63. At this point Cedarville appeared to be in a good position because Grace had three players with four fouls. The only problem was that the 'Jackets could not hit at the foul line, and neither could they foul out any of the Lancer players. Grace proceeded to run the lead out to 80-67, with 8:11 left on the clock. Again Cedarville responded with aggressive defense, and with 5:35 left in the game Dave Branon scored on a break-away layup to bring the score to 84-81. Grace then took it back up to a 91-81, but Gary Holbrook provided the impetus for the final drive.

Although the Yellow Jackets finished fifth in the conference and was 1-4 in dual meets, the team in its first full year of existence made a relatively good showing. Coach Green will have most of the squad back next year and if some new students can fill the gaps on the squad, the grapplers could be much improved next year.

Golfers Get In Shape For Upcoming Season

Golf at Cedarville will begin April 5, with an away match at Dayton. Having posted their first winning season ever last year, Coach Dr. Robert Gromacki, feels the team can putt toward an even better record this spring. The basis for this feeling lies mainly in his two returning lettermen.

Jim Buzzard, a senior, averaged a cool 76 last year while earning All-conference and All-District 22 NAIA honors. Jim narrowly missed the tournament championship last season by placing two strokes off the leader. His personal won-lost season was 10-3.

The number two man on the squad is Jim Rickard. Jim averaged 85 last season and posted a 7-6 record.

Two outstanding freshmen prospects are John Myers and Dave Schwamburger. Both boys lettered in high school. The remainder of the eight man team is made up of Stu Walker, senior; Jeb Beechem, freshman; Kirkby Brown, senior; and Dan Manross, senior.

Coach Gromacki, in his eleven years of coaching at Cedarville, is looking for his best season ever. With five men playing each match who have the potential to consistently stroke 85 or below, we could win the conference. All home matches will be played at Reid Park, North Course at Springfield. Spectators are definitely welcome.

Prospects Bright For Track Team

This year's Cedarville College track team could very well have an exciting season. Last year's squad never had any graduates and many fine freshmen are out this year.

For example of freshmen talent one would only have to look at the cross country team. The distance events will be interesting with Brent Myers, Steve Gruber, and Loren Richmond. The sprints will be lead by Bruce Smith and many other fine freshmen.

The upper classmen will give the team a fine balance of experience and youth. From last year's squad are Bob Wood, Dave Jewell, Ernie Welborn, Les Chambers, Tom Farlow, Dave Peters, Lyle Rodman, Ron Yoder, Mark Alexander, Tom Strom, Dave Globig, Phil Stine, Bill Bacheller, Dick Clewell, Phil Moon, and Jake Tipton.

This squad will have more talent and more depth than last year's and if the proper improvement is attained, this squad should make a fine showing in conference.

Coach King, who did a fine job of recruiting, is very happy with his squad's balance and depth. They should break many records and this coupled with a new track will make them very exciting to watch.
